Cult Classic Edition

This session of STATIC is dedicated to the good, the bad and the so-bad-they're-good world of Cult Cinema. We'll be watching and discussing both new and old, obscure, misunderstood and forgotten films that have gained notoriety and rabid fan bases for their completely original and sometimes strange take on movie-making.

About STATIC:

You can't be a great filmmaker without seeing the great films. Static gives young film enthusiasts an opportunity to view modern and classic film works in a critical environment. Once a week, students watch an important film and discuss the cinematic and artistic devices used in the film as well as the film's cultural impact. These critical discussions are an excellent way for students to increase their analytical abilities as well as their media literacy. It's also an incredibly fun environment for young people to meet peers with similar interests and to see some films they have heard about but never taken the time to watch.
